

Aaida Peerani is a staff lawyer at the Centre for Public Legal Education Alberta, which is a non-profit organization committed to advancing social justice.

Previously, Aaida worked as a lawyer at Miller Thomson LLP in the corporate/commercial and private client services departments with significant experience in litigation. She obtained a Bachelor's of Arts in Sociology with distinction from the University of Alberta and thereafter, graduated with a JD/MBA from Osgoode Hall Law School and the Schulich School of Business.

Her professional experiences drive her to combine creativity, optimism and pragmatism to develop strategies for civic advancement. Aaida strongly believes that public libraries can empower individuals and communities to transform lives by providing critical resources, social connections and adaptable spaces.
