Early literacy program expanding to the Grey Nuns and Misericordia Hospitals NICU

Covenant Health, Edmonton Public Library expanding Welcome Baby resources

EDMONTON, AB, Sept. 6, 2019 – Join the Edmonton Public Library (EPL) and Covenant Health hospitals for an update on how their partnership gives neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) families early literacy resources to help with their baby’s early brain development.

This month, EPL’s Welcome Baby program will be expanding to two NICUs at the Grey Nuns and Misericordia Community Hospitals. Welcome Baby provides new parents with essential materials to start a lifelong love of learning, including a book bag, board book, compact disc of songs and rhymes, early literacy information and an invitation to get a free library card. The tools in the Welcome Baby program give families resources they can use to support their child’s early literacy and build meaningful bonds for parents.

Dr. Amber Reichert, Neonatologist and lead physician collaborating with the EPL Welcome Baby program, Sharon MacKenzie, Registered Nurse and program lead, EPL Youth Services Librarian Tamsin Shute and a current Misericordia NICU family will be available for media interviews.
