Thank you for your willingness to lend a helping hand with JCPL!

JCPL Volunteer Program Opportunities

Here are some of the jobs that volunteers do:

Operations Assistant: This is the perfect job for anyone who likes to tidy and organize stuff, and keep things running efficiently. Tasks may include shelving, searching for requested materials, putting things in order, cleaning computers, and stocking supplies. This physical job requires lots of movement, and the ability to lift, bend, stretch, kneel, stand, twist, push book carts and manipulate library materials.

Program Assistant: If you like to work with people, are outgoing and creative, this is the job for you because you'll work directly with library staff in planning, setting up, and facilitating library programs and special events. Tasks may also include preparing craft, Storytime, and program materials as well as program set-up and break-down.

Library to You Assistant: For folks who can't get to the Library, Library to You assistants help bring the Library to them. Opportunities may include office help, Home service delivery, programming and event help, and "personal book shopper services." Library to You is located in the library Administration Building next to Lakewood Library.

DIYLab/MakeSomething Assistant: This is the perfect job for anyone passionate about teaching others how to make things. What kind of things? You name it – anything from knitted scarves and amigurumi toys, to 3D objects, soldered circuits and jewelry, cut paper crafts, light up bookmarks, or a sundress for baby.

Teen Advisory Board: If you're 12-18 years of age and interested in becoming more involved in your Library and community, TAB might be just the volunteer opportunity for you. You'll work directly with other teens and teen librarians in planning and leading library programs, organizing community service projects, and providing input on library books and materials in this long-term commitment.

Summer Reading Assistants: Do you love to read? And do you enjoy encouraging others to read? Summer Reading assistants are the backbones of JCPL’s Summer Reading program every June and July. Teens going in to grades 7-12 staff the libraries’ Summer Reading desks, helping people of all ages register for the program, record their reading time, and award prizes. Recruitment for these positions begins every year in April.

Community Story Time Assistants: If you love little kids and books, have a high tolerance for chaos, and know how to “ham things up” with singing, dancing, and a little silliness, you’ll enjoy this role. Community Story Time assistants visit Jeffco preschools to perform Story Times one or two days per month. Must be willing to commit to nine months of service.

Please note, not all service areas may be available for placement. Log on to jeffcolibrary.org/volunteer for a list of current volunteer opportunities. Also, JCPL receives a high volume of inquiries from people who want to read aloud to children. However, only paid staff members perform Story Times at library locations.

Volunteer Applicant Checklist

1. Review current volunteer opportunities on jeffcolibrary.org volunteer positions matching your interests.
2. Complete the online Volunteer Application and Consent for Background Check, indicating the open position for which you are applying. Due to the high volume of volunteer applications we receive by JCPL, you'll be contacted only if there is an open position that might match your interests, skills, and preferences.
3. If there is a potential match, the volunteer coordinator will conduct the background check then contact you by phone or email to invite you to attend a 1-hour volunteer information session.
4. After you've attended the volunteer information session, you'll be contacted by a volunteer liaison from your preferred library location to schedule a start date and an onsite meeting and orientation.

You have the right to make a written request within a reasonable period of time for a free notice of the nature and scope of any investigative consumer report ordered. Such notice will be made in a writing mailed, or otherwise delivered to you not later than five days after the date such request was received or such report was first requested, whichever is the later.

A copy of the Federal Trade Commission’s (FTC) “A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA)” is attached hereto. You may have additional rights under state law.

NY & ME APPLICANTS ONLY: You have a right to know whether an investigative consumer report was requested and to inspect and receive a copy of any investigative consumer report by contacting BIS. By signing below you acknowledge receipt and understanding of the NEW YORK BACKGROUND CHECK NOTICE.

A Summary of Your Rights Under the Fair Credit Reporting Act
The federal Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) promotes the accuracy, fairness, and privacy of information in the files of consumer reporting agencies. There are many types of consumer reporting agencies, including credit bureaus and specialty agencies (such as agencies that sell information about check writing histories, medical records, and rental history records). Here is a summary of your major rights under the FCRA. For more information, including information about additional rights, go to www.ftc.gov/credit or write to: Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.

- You must be told if information in your file has been used against you. Anyone who uses a credit report or another type of consumer report to deny your application for credit, insurance, or volunteer – or to take another adverse action against you – must tell you, and must give you the name, address, and phone number of the agency that provided the information.
- You have the right to know what is in your file. You may request and obtain all the information about you in the files of a consumer reporting agency (your “file disclosure”). You will be required to provide proper identification, which may include your Social Security number. In many cases, the disclosure will be free. You are entitled to a free file disclosure if:
 1. a person has taken adverse action against you because of information in your credit report;
 2. you are the victim of identify theft and place a fraud alert in your file;
 3. your file contains inaccurate information as a result of fraud; you are on public assistance;
 4. you are unemployed but expect to apply for volunteer within 60 days.

In addition, by September 2005 all consumers will be entitled to one free disclosure every 12 months upon request from each nationwide credit bureau and from nationwide specialty consumer reporting agencies. See www.ftc.gov/credit for additional information.

- You have the right to ask for a credit score. Credit scores are numerical summaries of your credit-worthiness based on information from credit bureaus. You may request a credit score from consumer reporting agencies that create scores or distribute scores used in residential real property loans, but you will have to pay for it. In some mortgage transactions, you will receive credit score information for free from the mortgage lender.
- You have the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. If you identify information in your file that is incomplete or inaccurate, and report it to the consumer reporting agency, the agency must investigate unless your dispute is frivolous. See www.ftc.gov/credit for an explanation of dispute procedures.
- Consumer reporting agencies must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information. Inaccurate, incomplete or unverifiable information must be removed or corrected, usually within 30 days. However, a consumer reporting agency may continue to report information it has verified as accurate.
- Consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information. In most cases, a consumer reporting agency may not report negative information that is more than seven years old, or bankruptcies that are more than 10 years old.
- Access to your file is limited. A consumer reporting agency may provide information about you only to people with a valid need -- usually to consider an application with a creditor, insurer, employer, landlord, or other business. The FCRA specifies those with a valid need for access.
- You must give your consent for reports to be provided to employers. A consumer reporting agency may not give out information about you to your employer, or a potential employer, without your written consent given to the employer. Written consent generally is not required in the trucking industry. For more information, go to www.ftc.gov/credit
- You may limit “prescreened” offers of credit and insurance you get based on information in your credit report. Unsolicited “prescreened” offers for credit and insurance must include a toll-free phone number you can call if you choose to remove your name and address from the lists these offers are based on. You may opt-out with the nationwide credit bureaus at 1-888-5-OPTOUT (1-888-567-8688).

- You may seek damages from violators. If a consumer reporting agency, or, in some cases, a user of consumer reports or a furnisher of information to a consumer reporting agency violates the FCRA, you may be able to sue in state or federal court.
- Identity theft victims and active duty military personnel have additional rights. For more information, visit www.ftc.gov/credit.

States may enforce the FCRA, and many states have their own consumer reporting laws. In some cases, you may have more rights under state law. For more information, contact your state or local consumer protection agency or your state Attorney General. Federal enforcers are:
