

Date Submitted: 6/11/2020

Author: Allen He, Under 12 years-old

“Last, but not least, Covid-19 had a huge impact on all unnecessary businesses and at the same time affected me and my family...or instance, my dad’s store was forced to close down temporarily, which meant a huge decreased income for my whole family.”

Covid-19 had changed my day to day life tremendously.

The big changes that happened to me during the pandemic are no more school in person, no more outdoor playing, and all unnecessary business must close down. I had happy changes and unhappy ones through this special period.

First of all, the bigger change that occurred to me during Covid-19, was that there was no more physical school. I had way less schoolwork, projects, quizzes, tests, and exams, due to the new school transformed system. The best about virtual school was that I could sleep late, wake up at noon and play much more video games. In general, no more school in person was the most amazing feature of Covid-19.

The next change, that happened during Covid-19, and that I am going to share is with you, is not as pleasant: no more outdoor playing. For example, I missed riding my bike with my neighbours on the streets, and playing tag with my classmates at Wonderland. Sadly, no more outdoor playing has totally limited my fresh air and sunshine intake.

Last, but not least, Covid-19 had a huge impact on all unnecessary businesses and at the same time affected me and my family. Many people lost their jobs due to the epidemic. For instance, my dad’s store was forced to close down temporarily, which meant a huge decreased income for my whole family. All unnecessary businesses having to close down, was the worst event that took place during Covid-19 for me and my beloved family. Covid-19 brought me enjoyable time, uncomfortable moments, and the most unfortunate obstacle. The three changes that affected me the most, were no more school in person, no more outdoor playing, and all unnecessary businesses had to close down.

I truly wish the Corona virus will stop spreading and everything goes back to normal.